userName with UserId so that the table looks like this: [UserId] [UserName] 1 Alex 2 Bob 3 Joseph I am using SQL Server 2014 and have no idea where to start. A: Change the name of your column ALTER TABLE Users ALTER COLUMN UserId INT A: You can use SQL Server dynamic sql to dynamically alter a column name declare @sql varchar(max) = 'ALTER TABLE [test],[dbo],[Users] ALTER COLUMN [UserName] [UserId]' exec(@sql) The British Library has a major collection of late fifteenth and early sixteenth-century antiquarian manuscripts. They have recently digitised a huge number of manuscripts including the Cotton Library, and this online database of searchable text and images of the material is now available (VAT is charged when paying by credit card). The digitised texts have been published in the Early English Books Online database and you can search the whole collection here.
