After going five games without tasting defeat, the New York City FC got some much-needed help from two Toronto FC penalties and a point against the Philadelphia Union in its 1-1 road draw at Talen Energy Stadium on Saturday. A grueling run of five away matches had seen the Union (5-5-4) notch just one win since June 2. They hadn't conceded a goal in regulation until Nicolai Naess came on in the 77th minute of play at Talen for Morris, having played virtually no part in the first half. It was a minute later, however, that the visitors found the net thanks to a Andrew Wenger opener for the visitors. It wasn't until substitute Tosaint Ricketts in the 90th minute that NYCFC (8-4-4) found a goal. Morris, who had been on the pitch for less than 20 minutes, had looked excellent in the first 40. His first touch after entering was perfectly weighted, and his
