Esophagectomy for esophageal cancer typically has been performed through a thoracotomy and is associated with significant morbidity and mortality. The purpose of this study was to assess the feasibility of a laparoscopic-assisted transhiatal esophagectomy (LATTE) and to assess the feasibility and safety of LATTE. Consecutive patients with endoscopically localizable esophageal cancer underwent laparoscopic transhiatal esophagectomy. Twenty-three patients (16 men, mean age 65) underwent LATTE for esophageal carcinoma. The mean +/- SEM (median) operative time was 446 +/- 55 (450) minutes, and the mean +/- SEM (median) blood loss was 617 +/- 179 (449) mL. Morbidity and mortality were not significantly different from those after a conventional open esophagectomy. LATTE is both technically feasible and safe. Although LATTE is more technically demanding than open esophagectomy, it represents a potential alternative treatment for patients with esophageal cancer.Q: Macro to collect data between pasted cell I need to collect some data and past it into a new workbook.
