

Remington 870 Stock

Comfort level throughout use along with control measures and performance abilities strongly depend on the Remington 870 Stock configuration. Stocks made from synthetic and wood as well as tactical polymer materials are available for different shooting styles and personal preferences.

Moderate modifications to the stock enhance both ergonomics and targeting precision at the same time they decrease felt recoil. The efficiency of your Remington 870 shotgun depends critically on your selection for its stock whether you hunt or defend yourself from home or need tactical features.
